Serbian guild launches Women Entrepreneurs in Agribusiness Project

By Goran Djakovic, president, AGROPRESS

USAID Deputy Mission Director Marilyn Schmidt has officially launched a major new project set up by the Serbian guild to promote entrepreneurship among women living in rural Serbia.

The Women Entrepreneurs in Agribusiness Project will actively encourage women to take an active part in the improvement of their economic position and self-employment.

"Engaging women in agriculture is of vital importance for Serbia's development and will result in improved employment opportunities for women in rural areas, creating a basis for financial security, and raising the living standard of their families," Schmidt said.

Women in rural parts of Serbia are very important for agricultural development and sustainability, but despite that fact, they have very little knowledge about the possibilities and benefits offered nowadays

We had a series of bilateral meetings

Australijska vinska industrija se bori protiv viškova

Postavio: Goran Đaković
Datum: 14.11.2009.

Australijska vinska privreda moraće da iskrči najmanje 20 odsto vinogradskih površina kako bi savladala problem viškova. To proizlazi iz tržišnih studija koje su naložile četiri vodeće vinogradarske organizacije te zemlje. Po toj studiji, australijski vinari proizvode godišnje 270.000 do 500.000 tona grožđa preko potrebe unutrašnjeg tržišta i izvoza. Po postojećim trendovima ponude i potražnje, viškovi će se bez protivmera u roku od dve godine ponovo duplirati, kaže agrarna novinarska služba AIZ. Već sada vinska industrija je primorena da velike količine izvozi po cenama ispod cene koštanja. Od oktobra 2007, izvozni promet je smanjen za 21 procenat. Pritom jeftina vina štete imidžu australijskog vina. Iz tog razloga,
